A WORD FROM THE EXECUTIVE SECRETARY

JEFF EBERT

As I work on putting the 2025 Cheviot Journal together, I always enjoy looking back at old Cheviot Journals to see what I can add to the current Journal to make it a better publication. I looked at the 1995 Journal to see how much has changed in thirty years. Obviously, a great deal has changed over the years. The number of members and the number of advertisers in the Journal has gone down substantially. The consignments to the National Sale have also decreased greatly.

Why is this? Obviously, costs have escalated. The cost of feed for the sheep, gas to travel to shows and sales and the price of other necessary sheep supplies have increased significantly. The time commitment involved in raising sheep has also become challenging for many people.

So, what can we do to try to reverse this downward trend? That is the million-dollar question!! If I had the easy solution to this, I could market it to most of the other sheep associations and breeds from other species as well.

Your ACSS board has looked at this as well and have implemented a few new programs to encourage more participation. 2025 will be the third year of the Comeback Show at the National Sale. This program encourages youth to bring their futurity ewe lambs back for a special class at the National Sale for additional cash rewards. They also implemented a starter flock program that rewards the recipients two Cheviot ewes to start their own flock. This program has no age restriction. We are always looking for different ways to encourage more Cheviot breeders.

I strongly encourage each of our members to reach out to potential members in your area to apply for the starter flock. Mentor that young 4-Her in your area and who knows maybe the next year he might want to add a Cheviot to their show flock. We need to grow our association one member at a time and it takes all of us working together to do that and grow the Cheviot breed. I hope to see many of you at the Cheviot events throughout the year. As your breed secretary I am here to help you in any way that I can. Do not hesitate to contact me by phone at 785-458- 9174 or by email at amcheviotssheep@gmail.com.

A LOOK BACK AT 1995

We are taking a look back at the 1995 Cheviot Journal. In this 40-page issue put together by secretary Ruth Bowles there were ads from 47 different breeders and businesses. Full page ads were from Lo-Ke Cheviots, Martin Cheviots, Bill Lawter and Stout Farms. The Journal also featured the sale catalog for the 1995 National Cheviot Show Sale. There were 104 head entered from 20 different consignors.

The 1995 Journal also included results of the 1994 National Show at Louisville which was judged by Bill Lawter. The champion ram was shown by Judy Moore with the reserve champion ram shown by Spilde Farms. The champion ewe was shown by Charles York and the reserve champion ewe was shown by Jami Baker. The premier exhibitor was Pine Knoll Acres. In the junior show Kendra Moore showed both the champion ram and champion ewe. Jared Poynter had both the reserve champion ewe and ram.

The President of the ACSS in 1995 was Joe Stout. Other directors were James Wilson, Robert Caughey, Robert Strand, Helen Hull, Robert Jepson, Grant Clyde Jr., Larry Miller, Judy Moore, Kenneth Moore Jr., Marlyn Stroh, Karol Willie and Richard Dickinson.

We found the following brief history on the inside front cover of the Journal interesting and thought we would share it here as well.

In 1838 sheepman from the rugged highlands of Scotland migrated with their families to the rolling hills of Otsego County, New York. The Cheviot Sheep was native to the hills of Scotland, as were these families. The Scots brought to this country the best of their breeding stock. Many prominent breeds of sheep are the direct result of crossing between two or three other breeds. However, the Cheviot had no such history.

The story is, that years ago, during the attempted invasion of England by the Spanish Armada, that formidable and dreadful fleet that wrecked upon the stormy coast, letting loose her cargo of sheep carried for meet supply. Some of those sheep swam ashore and escaped to the hills off Scotland where they bred and multiplied. This fact is the origin off the Scottish legend that the Cheviot sheep "came up out of the sea." The Scots became guardians of this extremely hardy, prolific, dual purpose breed to be known later for their valuable wool and mutton qualities. The rams would weigh from 200 to 400 lbs. Ewes, 150 to 200 lbs. And would shear from 8-10 lbs. of wool. The record shear of 19 lbs. was produced from a Cheviot ram bred in Otsego County.

Flocks soon became a common sight on the hillsides in Otsego County, and a solid part of the economy in that area. The Scottish immigrants were progressive stockmen in the art off sheep breeding and raising to the point where sheep from the Otsego area were among the finest in the county. Some of the families who worked to improve the breeds were the Ainslies, Loughs, Jarvises and the Currys. On January 18, 1891, The American Cheviot Sheep Breeders Association was organized at the town of Hartwick, Otsego County, New York. Its members were some of the most intelligent and progressive stockmen in the United States and Canada. In the year 1900, the members of the American Cheviot Sheep Breeders Association and the National Cheviot Sheep Society who agreed to the terms of consolidation became the members of the American Cheviot Sheep Society, Inc. as it is known today.

A WORD FROM THE PRESIDENT

DAN SPILDE

Hello to everyone who has opened your new copy of the Cheviot Journal. We find another year behind us and a lot of exciting news from the Cheviot breed. In 2024 we began our starter flock program by giving away several yearling ewes to a couple of very strong recipients. Congratulations to both on their donated females and best of luck to them as they work with their mentors in developing a breeding program of their own. The starter flock committee has reviewed how the program worked last year and has some new ideas and information that will be printed here in this copy of the Cheviot Journal. Please continue to search for strong candidates and make sure they apply so that we can add more strong future breeders of border Cheviots.

We also continue to build our futurity program which had an increase in participation in 2024. We are excited to see how many of those nominated females purchased by Youth exhibitors will return to the national sale this June to compete for the pot of money allocated for the comeback show in Springfield. Please continue to encourage Youth exhibitors to turn in their futurity points to make sure they are able to be awarded their share of the futurity winnings.

In addition to the youth programs, I am very excited about our 2025 National Sale. If the momentum in our breed continues to build, we will have another great set of sheep and great sale! Thank you to Jeff Ebert for all his work in organizing and running our National Sale each year.

In closing, I wish you all a great lambing season and a successful season of buying, selling, exhibiting and showing your Cheviot sheep.

***As always, if you receive an email or text claiming it is me, asking for donations or wanting you to do something for me or for the Cheviot association, IT IS A SCAM! Please delete it.

Best wishes and God's Blessings,
Dan Spilde

GENERAL INFORMATION

The modern Cheviot breed has been produced by selection rather than by crossing. It is a pure breed, one of a very few in this country. Because of this purity, when the Cheviot ram is mated with crossbred ewes of other breeds, he stamps an unmistakable Cheviotness on his offspring, importing to them a large measure of the superiority of which Cheviots are known.

Distinctive Appearance

The modern American Cheviot is primarily a mutton sheep. As sheep weights go, it is definitely one of the smaller breeds but one of the most distinctive in appearance. Much of its distinctive appearance is due to the high carriage of the head and the quick, coordinated stride. The head is carried high, and the ears are carried together, erect and forward. There is no wool on the head or face in front of the ears, nor is there wool below the knees and the hocks. The head, legs, and ears are covered with very fine white hair. Their bare heads, attractive white color and absence of horns give them a very aristocratic bearing. Nostrils and hooves should be black in color. Rams in good condition mature at 160 to 200 lbs., ewes from 130 to 170 lbs.

Extreme Hardiness

The breed is also recommended for its extreme hardiness. This is one of the breed's strongest characteristics. For generations raised on the Cheviot Hills, rarely seeing the inside of a shed or barn, summer or winter, Cheviots have, from force of circumstances, developed into the hardiest of the medium-wool breeds. The newborn lambs are strong, vigorous and alert and are born with a will to live. Their unusual vitality and hardiness makes them easy to raise, and with reasonable care, losses are insignificant.

Production Plus

Cheviot ewes are a delight for the shepherd. They bear their lambs easily, have a high number of twins, and produce plenty of milk to support them. Production records, year after year, show that their twins grow as fast as single lambs. Both the lambs and their mothers are good foragers and thrifty efficient feeders. Their grazing pattern is unlike that of other sheep. Instead of grouping together in a frontal assault on a single area, they tend to spread out over an area and get all the available feed. As rustlers, they have few equals. If there is vegetation to be found—above or beneath the snows—browse, grass, heather, or weed—they will find it.

Desirable Carcasses

The modern Cheviot has a compact body with a straight smooth back with covers a rack of well-filled, meaty chops and a broad loin of superior quality. The leg is full, round and plump. One of the outstanding merits of these choice cuts, the Cheviot has a reputation as a meat producer. These plump, meaty cuts, their pink flesh delicately trimmed with just enough fat to make them juicy and tender, are the housewife's choice because with them she can serve her family a tasty meal with minimum waste. Because they are housewife's choice, Cheviots are the choice of the butcher, and therefore bring a better price at the market. The Cheviot is prized by the meat packers for the very practical reason that the packer gets more pounds of lamb which he buys "on the hoof." Cheviot rams are excellent sires in crossbred market lamb production programs. Ewes built to deliver larger-headed lambs find the Cheviot-sired lambs, with their small heads, very easy to deliver, so that much less attention is required at lambing time. These lambs are so vigorous, strong, and hardy at birth that losses are kept at a minimum, and a higher percentage of the lambs are raised to marketing age. Successful producers of commercial lambs know their success depends upon their ability to produce the kind of lamb carcasses which the market demands, at the lowest labor and feed cost. Cheviot ram aid these commercial producers in producing the type of lambs desired by the market.

Fine Fleeces

Cheviots produce generous fleeces of white wool which is preferred by mills because its fineness, crimp, and length of staple give it superior spinning and combing qualities, and its low grease content causes less shrinkage in scouring. The fleece is usually grades 1/4 to 3/8 blood combing and is usually from four to five inches in length. Rams will normally shear 9 to 13 lbs., and the ewe will produce fleeces of 8 to 10 lbs.

All Things Considered

Though Cheviots may come in smaller packages, they contain for the sheepman a surprising combination of highly desirable qualities. They are noted for hardiness, longevity, productiveness, milking, and mothering ability and for their great activity. They are high in quality and hang a presentable carcass that has a minimum of outside fat for the amount of carcass lean produced. They utilize rough, low producing hill country very profitably with relatively little assistance from man and even less from the elements. Where there is a really tough clean-up job to be done to convert waste land into dollars, more and more sheepmen are discovering that "Cheviots can take it." In comparing Cheviots with other breeds, let the comparison be made on a basis of pounds of dressed lamb and clean wool produced per acre, and consider all of the costs of this production, including the year-round cost of feeding the ewe, and the time and attention required at lambing and shearing time.

CHEVIOT BREED STANDARDS

Border Cheviots are a small-framed breed of sheep known for their vigor, mother ability, muscle and ease of fleshing. Along with their size, the head is another unique characteristic of the Border Cheviot.

I. GENERAL APPEARANCE 25 POINTS

A. APPEARANCE: Alert, active stylish and symmetrical, standing on moderate leg length. The overall body exhibits balance.

B. SIZE: The preferred Cheviot is proportional in height and length equal to or exceeding the height of the animal. The average Cheviot ram should weight approximately 200 pounds at maturity. The average Cheviot ewe should weigh approximately 150 pounds at maturity.

II. BREED TYPE 25 POINTS

The beauty of the Cheviot head is one of the breed's distinguishing features. The Cheviot style, alertness and contrasting colors set the breed apart from others.

A. HEAD: Medium in length and broad, with ample width between the eyes. Straight with little arch between the eyes and nostrils; more strongly arched in rams.

1. EARS: Medium in length, sharply erect, of medium thickness, and placed on top of the head. The circumference of the ears should give a curved appearance, rather than flat and open. From a side view, the ears should be pointed slightly forward.

2. EYES: Large, round, clear and alert, with black pigmentation around the rim of the eye.

3. NOSE: Broad muzzled, with large nostrils forming a black "T" at the end of the nose.

4. MOUTH: Black lipped with a strong deep jaw.

B. HAIR COVERING: Head, ears, and legs well covered with fine, short, white hair. Black spots are acceptable on the ears and poll. Black spots on any other part of the body are objectionable. Brown hair on any part of the body is HIGHLY objectionable.

C. HOOVES: Black in color.

III. STRUCTURE 25 POINTS

Soundness is imperative in useful Cheviot sheep. Incorrectness decreases the animal's movement, growth, reproductive rate, longevity, usefulness and ultimate value. Additionally, structure and soundness are highly inheritable traits. Cheviots should stand on large circumference of bone with adequate size to the foot. Structural soundness relates to the skeleton. Incorrectness in one part of the skeleton usually is connected to incorrectness in other parts of the skeleton. For example, usually post-legged animals are also too straight in their shoulder angle.

AREAS OF STRUCTURAL CORRECTNESS

FOREQUARTERS: Shoulder blades should be set in uniformly and smoothly to the rest of the body.

BACK: The back of Cheviot sheep should be straight as possible from the top of the shoulder to the dock. A slightly elevated shoulder in comparison to the hip is acceptable. Additionally, slight slope of the hip from the hook to the pin bones is acceptable.

FRONT FEET: Front View: Both feet should point forward and be perpendicular to the body with straightness from the chest floor to the toe.

SIDE VIEW: Feet should be straight from the chest floor through the knee to the pastern. The angle of the pastern should be approximately 45 degrees. Less of an angle allows for weak pasterns and more of an angle allows for extreme straightness.

REAR FEET: Side View: The back of the rear leg should be perpendicular to the pin bones of the hip. Less angle allows for post-legged individuals. More angle causes sheep to be sickle-hocked.

REAR VIEW: Legs should be square and perpendicular to the corners of the body with equal distance between legs at the hock and the toe.

MOVEMENT: Animals should maintain the proper correctness to the skeleton both while standing and moving. Many times structural defects are not evident until the animal moves about. It is then important to assess structural correctness both while the Cheviot is standing and moving.

For the beginner and veteran breeder alike, an excellent article on feet and leg soundness in sheep is "Feet and Legs" (North Central Regional Extension Publication #301) by Drs. Harold Henneman and Margaret Benson of Michigan State University.

IV. BODY 25 POINTS

A. NECK: Moderately long, trim, and exhibiting extension, blending smoothly into shoulders, and contributing to an overall balanced appearance.

OF EXCELLENCE

B. SHOULDERS: Smoothly laid in from neck to back. Tight at top of the shoulder, also smooth at the point of the shoulder.

C. CHEST, BRISKET, AND HEART GIRTH: Chest deep and moderately wide, but trim, with adequate capacity, and fitting smoothly into neck and shoulders. Brisket also trim. Heart girth full, broad and deep to promote longevity.

D. BACK (TOPLINE): Long and level, no weakness in front or behind the shoulder.

E. RIBS: Deep and well sprung with adequate cover. Essential for vigor and ease of fleshing.

F. LOIN: Long, wide, deep, and well covered.

G. HINDQUARTERS: Hip broader than shoulders. Rump wide, long and level out to the dock. Leg heavily muscled.

H. UNDERLINE: Level and as parallel to the topline as possible. Flanks deep and full.

I. FLEECE: Chalky white in color, uniform crimp with blunt ends; staple is definite. Covers the body completely from behind the poll and ears to slightly above the knees and hocks, including the belly.

Wool Grade:

3/8 to 1/4 blood combing
(58s to 48s or 27 to 33 microns)

Weight of fleece:

Rams: 8 to 14 pounds
Ewes: 6 to 10 pounds

Fleece Characteristics can be highly objectionable but not disqualifying:

- A. Black, brown or grey spots in the fleece
- B. Hairy britch
- C. Kemp throughout the fleece
- D. Shiny fleece

J. TESTICLES (RAMS): Uniform and adequate size for age, and well descended from body. Free from any abnormalities. Scrotum free from any split.

K. TEATS (EWES): Two well placed teats of moderate length, free from any abnormalities.

V. HIGHLY OBJECTIONABLE CHARACTERISTICS

1. Poor breed type
2. Scurs
3. Bare belly
4. High shoulders
5. Pink or white hooves
6. Nose not totally black
7. Sandy or brown hair on any part of the body

8. Split Scrotum

9. Fleece characteristics per paragraph IV (I)

VI. DISQUALIFYING CHARACTERISTICS

1. Horns
2. Malformed mouth (overshot or undershot jaw)
3. Less than two testicles in rams
4. Less than two teats in ewes
5. Totally pink nose

IMPLEMENTING NEW BREED STANDARDS

The new Cheviot Standards of Excellence were adopted at the 2004 annual meeting of the American Cheviot Sheep Society. The new Breed Standards are the result of more than two years of work by a committee formed in 2002. Through the process of updating the Cheviot Breed Standards, members presented many thoughts and proposals. These thoughts were debated until the final draft was approved by a vote of the members in November 2004. While probably not perfect, these Standards represent a significant step forward in the preservation of both the desirable carcass and the beautiful and distinctive Cheviot appearance. Now the important task of applying these Standards is up to all Cheviot breeders. Taking time to explain and demonstrate the preferred Cheviot characteristics to young 4-Hers and others who desire to be Cheviot breeders is critical. Another important task in assuring that these Standards are followed is to choose judges for national Cheviot competitions who will apply them in the show ring. To help the Board of Directors evaluate how an individual judge applies the breed Standards of Excellence, we as you to fill out the critique form found on the back page of the Cheviot Journal. If you need extra copies of the critique form, please contact the ACSS office. It is very important for each member to do this so we can establish a judge's review to assist in the selection of judges for national shows who follow the Breed Standards.

The American Cheviot Sheep Society has taken a large step forward in guarding and maintaining the quality of our Cheviot breed. It is now up to each one of us to complete this task. Please fill out a judge critique form for each show you attend and follow the instructions for submitting the form. If you would like extra copies of the Cheviot Breed Standards of Excellence to share with judges in your area, please contact the ACSS office.

BEST PRACTICES FOR MANAGING PARASITIC INFECTIONS IN YOUR FLOCK

BY DR. KELSEY BENTLEY, SMALL RUMINANT EXTENSION SPECIALIST, KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY

Gastrointestinal nematodes (GIN), especially Haemonchus contortus (commonly known as the barber pole worm), are a significant health concern for small ruminant producers. These parasites pose challenges not only for small-scale operations but also for larger, extensively managed systems with hundreds or even thousands of animals. The severity of GIN infections varies across production systems in the U.S., with regional differences in parasite pressure and species composition making it difficult to apply a one-size-fits-all approach to parasite control. Adding to this challenge is the growing issue of anthelmintic resistance, which is primarily driven by the overuse of dewormers. The following sections outline effective strategies for managing GIN infections in flocks, along with practices that should be avoided to maintain flock health and prevent resistance.

Nutritional Strategies Proper nutrition is vital for bolstering the immune system of sheep against GIN. The nutritional needs of small ruminants increase when they face significant parasitic challenges:

Supplemental Protein: Providing supplemental protein, such as ½ pound per head per day of a high-protein supplement, can help mature animals better tolerate GIN infections. Lambs, being more susceptible due to their immature immune protection, benefit significantly from additional nutrition. Creep feeding lambs and providing them with a high plain of nutrition will lessen the severity of infection. It is also critical to ensure dams are in optimal body condition and produce high-quality milk for lambs up until weaning.

Targeted Supplementation: Using tools like body condition scoring (BCS) to identify at-risk animals is an effective way to prioritize supplementation and reduce overall costs. Sorting ewes into groups based on their BCS allows producers to focus supplemental feeding on those animals that need it most, optimizing feed use and minimizing waste. Providing supplementation during critical periods, such as the periparturient phase when natural immunity is suppressed and parasites take advantage of this weakened immune state, is particularly important for maintaining ewe health and productivity.

Reducing Worm Exposure Understanding the lifecycle of H. contortus is critical for implementing grazing practices to reduce worm exposure within your flocks:

Lifecycle Management: Warm, wet conditions favor the development of H. contortus larvae, while freezing or extreme heat (>90°F) reduces their survival on pasture. Grazing strategies should account for these environmental factors and exploit areas of the parasite lifecycle that are prone to inhibiting establishment.

Pasture Rotation: Rotating grazing areas and allowing pastures to rest for 60 plus days can reduce larval contamination within pastures. Saving low-burden pastures for vulnerable groups, such as lambs or periparturient ewes, is a practical strategy. Rotating mineral feeders and water sources can prevent overuse of specific areas, reducing local parasite loads in common areas.

Grazing Height: GIN larvae typically do not ascend forage higher than 4 inches. Maintaining sufficient residual forage height can limit exposure. Avoid overgrazing, particularly near water sources or shade, where animals congregate, and therefore parasites concentrate.

Reproductive Timing: If possible, you may want to consider adjusting lambing schedules to avoid high-risk periods in which climates are favorable for GIN infection. For example, fall lambing may coincide with lower pasture contamination levels. However, the reproductive seasonality of certain breeds must be considered when implementing this strategy.

Genetic Resistance Genetic resistance plays a key role in reducing the need for frequent chemical treatments and enhancing the long-term health of your flock. Consider these strategies for leveraging genetics in managing GIN infections:

Breeds with Natural Resistance: If you are not a seedstock producer and have commercial sheep if you are seriously struggling with parasite problem crossbreeding with breeds like St. Croix, Katahdin, or Gulf Coast Native, can improve flock resilience, especially in warmer, wetter climates.

Selection Within Breeds: Use estimated breeding values (EBVs) for fecal egg counts (FEC) to select parasite-resistant animals. Resistance to GIN can also correlate with broader immune benefits, though research in this area is ongoing.

Balanced Selection: Even in arid environments, selecting for some level of GIN resistance ensures resilience during favorable conditions for parasites, such as following rainfall or grazing irrigated pastures.

Monitoring and Treatment Strategies Strategically monitoring your flock and implementing targeted treatments can prevent overuse of dewormers and help maintain effective parasite control. Here are some practical approaches to monitoring and treatment:

FAMCHA© Scoring: While flock-wide scoring may not be feasible, identifying and treating sentinel animals (e.g., lambs or thinner ewes) can help gauge overall flock health. If these animals show low levels of anemia, treatment may not be necessary and can go on an as needed basis when animals show clinical signs.

Body Condition Scoring: BCS is a quick method to identify animals that may be struggling with GIN. Dams without nursing offspring and animals in good condition typically require less frequent treatment.

Fecal Egg Counts: Conducting FEC analyses on a representative sample (10-15 animals) can determine whether treatment is necessary. Pooled sampling offers a cost-effective alternative but requires proper collection techniques for infection accuracy.

Combination Dewormers: If using a target selective treatment strategy (like FAMCHA© scoring) at least two dewormers from different drug classes can be used simultaneously to achieve a higher kill rate and reduce the risk of resistance among parasite species. Avoid routine rotation of dewormers, as this can accelerate resistance. Injectable products, especially long-acting formulations, are not labeled for small ruminants and pose a greater risk of resistance development. Oral dewormer formulations are preferred.

Practices to Avoid!

Routine Dewormer Rotation: This exposes GIN to all drug classes and may not kill enough worms to prevent resistance buildup. Once your dewormer classes stop working you are often left with limited options so maintaining their efficacy is paramount! Do not switch classes just for the sake of switching it up.

Overuse of Dewormers: Treat only animals that show clinical signs or are at high risk to preserve refugia (parasites that have never experienced anthelmintic treatment) and slow resistance development. Treating the entire flock indiscriminately is discouraged, remember 20% of your flock typically harbors 80% of the parasite burden.

Conclusion

All sectors of the U.S. small ruminant industry, face growing challenges from Haemonchus contortus and anthelmintic resistance. Sustainable parasite control requires a multi-pronged approach, including nutritional support, pasture management, genetic selection, and strategic treatment. By implementing these practices, producers can improve flock health, reduce economic losses, and ensure the viability of dewormer classes for generations to come.

Directions:

Preheat the oven to 400 degrees. Line a baking sheet with parchment paper. In a large skillet preheated to medium-high heat add the olive oil, onion, pepper, kosher salt and pepper. Sauté the veggies until softened for about five minutes. Next, add in the ground lamb. Cook the American lamb until it is no longer pink for about six minutes. Add in the garlic and spices. Stir to combine and continue to cook for about a minute. Pour in the marinara sauce, stir, and let simmer for about five minutes. Remove from the heat. Roll the pizza dough out into a 9X13 rectangle. Next, leaving a 2-1/2 inch border on the long sides and ¼-inch border on the short sides, cut the dough at 1-inch intervals along each long side. Fill the middle of the dough with the lamb sauce and top with shredded mozzarella. Alternating sides, fold the strips halfway over the filling at an angle, creating a braided look. Make sure to pinch the short sides of the dough to keep the filling from spilling out. Brush the top of the stromboli with egg. Bake for about 15 to 20 minutes or until golden brown. Remove from the oven and garnish with parmesan cheese. Let cool slightly before serving!

JUNIOR FEATURE ANNIE SALING

Parents names: Pat and Tracy Saling

Year in School: Junior

Hometown: Caldwell, Ohio

Give a brief background on your education, activities:

I am currently a junior at Caldwell High School. When I am not showing, I serve as the president of the Claybusters 4-H club, vice president of the Caldwell FFA chapter, member of the Caldwell FFA BBQ team, and a member of the National Honor Society for my high school. I also am an athlete and volunteer at Kayla's Krusaders cheer and tumble and I am participating in Big Brothers Big Sisters.

Number of Cheviots in your flock: 25

Favorite show that you have attended and why?

Some of my favorite shows to participate in are the All American Junior Show and Ohio State Fair Junior Show. At these shows, I am able to meet people from all over the United States, learn new showing methods, and participate in contests that are typically not presented at other shows including skillathon, judging contests, promotional contests, and ag Olympics.

What do you like about Cheviots?

Throughout my show career, I have shown several different breeds and I always end up coming back to Cheviots. They are a beautiful and attractive breed that is very eye catching both in the ring, and in the field. They also have a temperament that I am drawn to. Although it can be difficult to train them because of their intelligence, I am able to create very strong trust based relationships after putting in the hours.

Fondest Sheep Memory?

I have been around the show ring my whole life, so it is definitely very difficult for me to pick just one special memory. Over the years, I have had so many amazing experiences and opportunities and have grown as both a showman and as a person. I have experienced being first and being last, but in the end that didn't matter because what the industry has really brought me is people. I have met some of my best friends for life, mentors who I will always remember, and a real aspect of family that I can always keep with me.

Future Plans and Goals?

After Graduation I plan on attending a college majoring in animal sciences and then move into the veterinary and animal health field.

Advice you would like to share with junior Cheviot members?

The main advice that I would like to give to younger members is to jump in with both feet and don't hold anything back. Even when you are starting out, go to big shows, work as hard as you can, and never give up. The more time that you put in, the more you get rewarded and you will never know unless you try your hardest.

Final Four – 4 quick questions

Favorite Food? Shrimp Alfredo

Favorite Activity Away from Sheep? FFA

What would be your ultimate vacation? I would love to travel out west touring Wyoming and its surrounding states to see the beautiful scenery and large sheep production farms.

What's a fun fact about yourself? I have competed in a national cheer competition in Orlando, Florida.

Parents names: Mike & Sarah Petersen

Year in School: Junior at Huntington University

Hometown: Claypool, IN

Give a brief background on your education, activities:

I am currently studying Agribusiness with an Animal Production focus at Huntington University. I commute to and from school in order to continue to grow my flock and expand my livestock operation. I currently run a flock of Border Cheviot, Southdown, and Blackface Commercial ewes with the help of my family, and have recently expanded into raising some goats as well. When not in school or in the barn, I serve as a 4-H volunteer for my county and am part of the sheep committee, as well as volunteering in children's ministries at my church, and working as a manger at our local Maurices.

Number of Cheviots in your flock: 20

Favorite show that you have attended and why?

My favorite show that we attend would have to be NAILE in Louisville, KY. I love the atmosphere of the show and having the chance to catch up with friends, while also doing lots of shopping in the Country Store, which is always an added bonus. I have made lots of memories in Louisville and showing on the green shavings makes them even more memorable.

What do you like about Cheviots?

One of my favorite things about Cheviots would have to be their personalities. Each of my ewes has their own little sense of attitude at times, but the majority of the time they are absolute sweethearts. The babies are some of the cutest I have ever seen, and their little ears make them always look like they are on high alert and full of life. My Cheviots bring me lots of joy and tend to know how to make me smile when I've been having a rough day.

Fondest Sheep Memory?

One of my favorite sheep memories would be from the 2021 Indiana State Fair. In January of 2021, one of our favorite Cheviot ewes was born on our farm and I had a gut feeling that she was going to be a special one, and we ended up naming her Lady May. She had been placing well at the shows we attended over the summer, but never ended up doing anything super special as she was kind of a freak for the breed. However, the last show of our summer show season was the Indiana State Fair Junior Breeding Ewe Show and I was lucky enough that Lady May won Champion Border Cheviot Breeding Ewe as an ewe lamb, and the judge really seemed to love her as much as we did. Fast forward to Sunday night and the Supreme Champion Breeding Ewe Drive, I was so thankful to even have the opportunity to show on the dirt in the coliseum and was even more thankful when I received a handshake and Lady May won 5th Overall Supreme Ewe. This was a huge accomplishment as our state fair is very market breed driven, so receiving this recognition with an ewe lamb I had raised myself and had watched grow up from the day she was born will always be one of the most memorable moments during my years raising sheep.

Future Plans and Goals?

I plan to graduate from Huntington University in May of 2026 with my bachelor's degree in Agricultural Business with an Animal Production focus. I hope to work for an agriculture-focused business in more of a management role, but my long-term career goals are still being decided on. I recently purchased two large barns that my family and I have been in the process of renovating in order to expand our flock, so I have hopes of continuing to improve the barns, as well as increasing our flock in both quantity and quality. I have recently expanded into the goat industry where I am raising Spanish goats in hopes of supplying recip does for the growing popularity of flushing and embryo transfers that is taking place in the show goat industry. I hope to continue to stay involved in the sheep industry long term, while continuing to raise quality show sheep for younger kids to show and breeders to purchase to improve their own flock genetics.

Advice you would like to share with junior Cheviot members?

Raising any type of livestock, specifically sheep, isn't always going to be easy. There are going to be highs and lows throughout the whole process, but if you are determined and passionate about it and not afraid to ask for help, then I believe raising sheep will become part of who you are and bring you a sense of accomplishment. Personally, when I get to see all my hard work and daily tasks pay off when a newborn lamb is born, it brings me happiness and joy to see the new little bundle of life. Raising sheep has become a part of who I am and has taught me so many valuable life lessons for many areas of my life, so if you are just getting started with raising sheep, stick with it no matter how hard it may seem because I promise you it will get better and you will get to see all your hard work and determination pay off.

Final Four: 4 quick questions

Favorite Food? I'm a big fan of almost all seafood, specifically shrimp and lobster!

Favorite Activity Away from Sheep? I'm rarely doing anything that doesn't involve sheep, but when I do have some spare time, I can be found coloring or working on diamond paintings.

What would be your ultimate vacation? I would love to go out west and visit Zion and Bryce Canyon National Parks in Utah! I have been once when I was younger and love looking back at pictures, but I would love to go again and do some more hiking!

What's a fun fact about yourself? I am terrified of birds, but specifically chickens! When we were younger, we had a hen that would roost in the rafters of our barns and one night she scared me when she flew down and landed on my head, and ever since then I freak out when chickens get too close to me.

SCHOLARSHIP WINNER FEATURE

CORTNEY COPELAND

HOW HAS THE SHEEP INDUSTRY, MORE SPECIFICALLY CHEVIOTS, TAUGHT YOU RESPONSIBILITY IN ALL ASPECTS OF YOUR LIFE?

The sheep industry, mainly working with Cheviots, has shaped my sense of responsibility by teaching me essential life skills beyond farm. First and foremost, caring for Border Cheviots has taught me the importance of consistency and routine. This has recently come into effect in my life. With my busy schedule as a high school senior, the serenity of a morning routine has brought a lot of calm into the storm. I have been able to reset my day so I can be 100% for all who need me, whether that be people or sheep. Another attribute working with sheep has taught me is decision-making and problem-solving. These two skills have become very important when working on the farm and my everyday life. Overall being a part of the sheep industry and the Cheviot breed has helped me grow into a more well rounded individual with all of the skills I have gained. I have started to use these skills in everyday life as I prepare to enter adulthood and the next steps of my life.

CHEVIOT EWE FUTURITY

Cheviot Ewe Futurity

The American Cheviot Sheep Society will again sponsor the Cheviot Futurity open to all Junior Exhibitors. A "Junior Exhibitor" is defined as an exhibitor who is not older than 21 on the date of the Junior Cheviot Show at NAILE. There is no lower age limit, but the Junior must be physically capable of showing their own sheep (exception made for physical or other handicap). Each Junior may purchase more than one animal, but only one animal placing in the top eight will be awarded to the top placings.

Consignors will nominate animals at specified sales and only these animals will be eligible for the Futurity. All animals must be purchased at a designated sale. Most consignment and private online sales offer Futurity nominated animals.

Consignor Rules:

1. Entries include Spring Ewe Lambs born Jan. 1, 2025 or later and Fall Ewe Lambs born Sept. 1, 2024. Yearling Ewes that were previously nominated in 2024 as lambs can be re-nominated by the Juniors for $25.
2. Nominating fee of $25 is payable to the American Cheviot Sheep Society. Animals must be nominated and designated prior to entering the show ring of a designated sale. Futurity animals must be sold at the auction of a designated sale and not be pre-sold.
3. Animals must have Scrapie Identification in their ear prior to being sold.

Exhibitor Rules:

1. Age limitations for Junior Exhibitors: to be eligible to compete in the Futurity, an exhibitor must not be over 21 years of age on the date of the Junior Cheviot Show at NAILE.
2. Junior Members must be physically able to show their Futurity animal to qualify for points at each show (exception made for physical or other handicap). If an exhibitor has more than one Futurity animal in a class, the owning junior must show one and another exhibitor must show the second animal.

3. Futurity animals are to be registered in the individual Juniors name only. No partnerships, farm, family, 4-H Club or FFA Chapter names are acceptable.
4. Animals and points earned in the Futurity are not transferable to any other person; nor are the points transferable from one animal to another.
5. Any Futurity entrant may compete with as many animals as desired, but will receive a premium for the one animal with the highest point total, in each division.
6. Animals must be shown in proper age classes.
7. Premium: The American Cheviot Sheep Society has donated $800 to start the Futurity Premium. A percentage of this money will be awarded to each division based on the number of animals nominated. The nominating fee will stay within the designated division of the Futurity. Division 1 – Spring Ewe Lambs, Division 2 – Fall Ewe Lambs, Division 3 – Yearling Ewes.
8. The top eight places will be paid in each division.
9. A point card must be filled out for each show and forwarded to the American Cheviot Sheep Society office by November 1, 2025. The card must be signed by the Superintendent of the show certifying that the Junior exhibited the animal, class size and the placing of the animal.
10. For points-earned purposes, all shows are considered equal; i.e. AOB, Junior, Open, State and County receive equal point value in figuring points. Only the Junior Show at NAILE will be included.
11. Futurity animals may compete at any number of shows, but only the top five point-award shows will be included in determining awards.
12. Futurity Awards will be announced at NAILE.
13. The sliding scale shown in the chart indicates how points will be determined.

DEAN HYDEN

Introduce yourself and your family:

Greetings from Washington state! My name is Dean Hyden, owner and operator of Shepherd's Bounty. Along with my wife of 30 years and two, now adult children, I keep a small group of sheep that is mostly for recreational enjoyment. My wife, Kari, is a part time secretary at our local church as well as a Faith Community Care nurse providing volunteer health care to our local community. My oldest son, Brennan, works for a Brazilian based sugar cane company, Centro de Tecnologia Canavieira (CTC) as a plant geneticist and my youngest son, Juston, is a member of the U.S. Airforce specializing in Jet Propulsion. I work as a farm caretaker for Washington State University at their education and research facility located on the Olympic Peninsula. I also enjoy teaching spinning and felting as a volunteer at our local library but mostly just working with my sheep. Shepherd's Bounty farm has been located in the Seattle area since the 1970's. I have moved within our region a few times but, as of the past three years, we are now located on Marrowstone Island amongst the Salish Sea. The farm is overlooked by the Olympic Mountains and bordered by tidal marshes and salt water estuaries.

Give us a brief description of your Cheviot Flock:

I have been raising registered Border Cheviots since 1976 and keep anywhere between 12 and 16 ewes and one ram as a show flock and sell replacement lambs and fleeces. Cheviot breed standards and characteristics that I work on are closer to the traditional older style bloodlines, emphasizing the qualities of the turn-of-the-century Border Cheviot sheep with pert and upright ears, the body low set and covered with a long dense fleece.

Why did you choose to raise Cheviots?

I obtained my first Border Cheviot as a 4-H project from my grandparents' neighbor, Elliot Monroe. I was not too familiar with any other breed of sheep at the time as my family had been dairy farmers for many generations, but something about the elegance and style his Cheviot possessed spoke to me. The enthusiasm that Mr. Monroe shared about the Border Cheviot breed made it an easy decision and I have not been disappointed over the years.

What advice do you have for people starting out with Cheviots?

Intently study the breed's character and conformation of what you think your ideal Border Cheviot should be and always strive towards what you like. Be proud of your breed and let it represent the best of attributes for which it is known. Study historical shepherding techniques that enable sheep to thrive with minimal input. Don't be afraid to pick up those books written a hundred plus years ago as they are a wealth of knowledge. Invest in equipment such as scales, shoots, ramps and crowd gates to work with your animals, minimizing stresses and making the shepherding experiences enjoyable.

What are one or two things that you have found to be critical needs for the success of your Cheviot flock?

The most important thing that I have learned about breeding Cheviots, or any livestock, is that when you go out to the barn, you should be pleased with what you see. What works for one shepherd or looks appealing to that individual may not be the most ideal scenario for your situation or environment. Preferably, find a style of sheep that you like, post a photograph of it in your barn, and every time you are working with your sheep give yourself a goal of breeding your entire flock to meet those standards of your ideal animal.

Who are some people that you credit for your success with Cheviots?

Elliot Monroe. I made it a point to visit him whenever I was at my grandparents. He became an amazing mentor and teacher, guiding me through all the aspects of caring for and managing a flock of sheep. A lot of discussion was on looking at body conformation and introducing me to the science of genetics and outcomes. I can still trace back all the lineage of my sheep to that first Cheviot that I purchased forty plus years ago from Mr. Monroe.

Final four quick questions, just for fun

What is your favorite sports team?

I am not really a big follower of sports teams but if I had to choose it would be local high school teams especially when the community comes together to support and cheer on their neighbors.

What is your favorite food?

Shellfish, crab and various sealife gathered from our tidelands and waterways.

What is the top item on your bucket list?

To visit breeders of Border "South Country" Cheviots in their native Scotland and possibly import some semen.

What is your favorite place you have visited?

I have had the pleasure of visiting over twenty countries on my travels. One that stands out is a trip that I went on to China as a youth with the Future Farmers of America in the 1980's. China has a special beauty and uniqueness with its environment and culture and being that they had just opened their borders to tourism we received an experience like no other.

The Cheviot

About 300 miles north of London, forming the dividing line between England and Scotland lies a group of mountains and hills. These are the Cheviot Hills. This region is the native home of the Cheviot sheep.

There is very little knowledge of the different breeds of livestock here in the United States prior to the time of the Revolutionary war, and in fact few breeds were written in histories hundreds of years ago. Ancient literature will give little information concerning the origin of the Cheviot. George Cully, in 1789 published the first distinctive work on livestock husbandry, in which he states "the original distinct breeds that I have seen may I apprehend be reduced to seven." In Cully's writings it can be found referenced to the Cheviot.

The tale is told that the Cheviot "came from out of the sea" which means, probably that they swam ashore from the vessels of the Spanish Armada, when they were wrecked upon the rocky shores of Britain. The sheep were carried for supply of meat and swam ashore from the wreck. The sheep of Spain, at that time, were known to be the best in the world. These sheep landed on the Cheviot Hills and it is from these hills that they take their name.

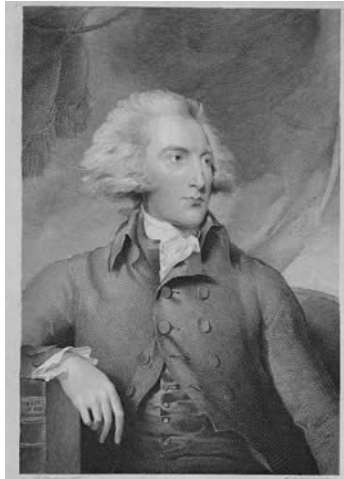

The history of the breed is an interesting one. From all that is known this breed of sheep has been raised in the Cheviot Hills from very early times. The original Cheviot was a very different animal from that of present day. He was then comparatively small and scraggy in frame, light in his bone, with brownish colored head and legs.

There has been much written about the development of the Cheviot Breed. In 1754, James Robson of Belford, Northumberland, England, a farmer of professional knowledge, is said to have been the first to attempt to remedy some of the defects that the Cheviot possessed. Formerly, they were to have been tall and thin, weak topped, the legs and neck were long and slender and the shoulders thin. The fleeces open topped and with breech hair, and the lambs were weak and thinly covered. He did this by bringing in Lincolnshire rams to breed to his ewes by which the carcass and frame were much improved. He continued to repeat this crossing to obtain a highly improved stock.

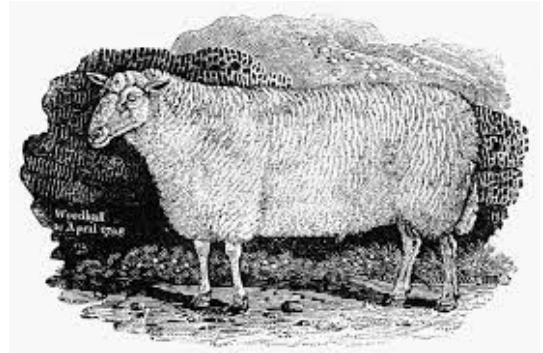

The continued practice was to select a ram from any neighboring flock of most improved shape and closed fleece to use with a few select ewes from the flock. From the produce of this crossing, the most perfect lambs are picked to be used as breeding rams when they were a year and a half old. This was repeated from time to time and it was a rule not to use the same ram more than two years.

In 1791, David Irving addressed a letter to Sir John Sinclair, Chairman of the Society for the Improvement of British Wool, on the subject of experiments with the Cheviot breed of sheep. Most of his work was using Cheviot rams on Black Faced ewes to improve pounds, quality and wool. This work gave satisfactory results, as it secured more money for the Cheviot blood than Black Faced from the same pasture.

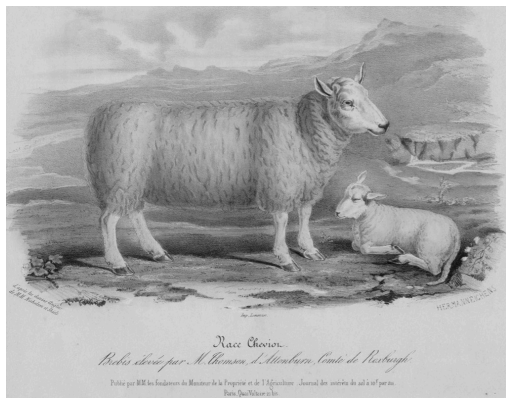

Sir John Sinclair

Writings in the Annuals, 1793, Sir John Sinclair, through his field of studies states: “Of different breeds that are kept on the mountainous districts, the Cheviot seem to be the best of any perhaps to date, uniting hardiness, quality of wool and excellence of shape and mutton, possessing length of limb and body, which enables them to travel without difficulty, either in quest of food or to market.”

Cheviot Ram 1798

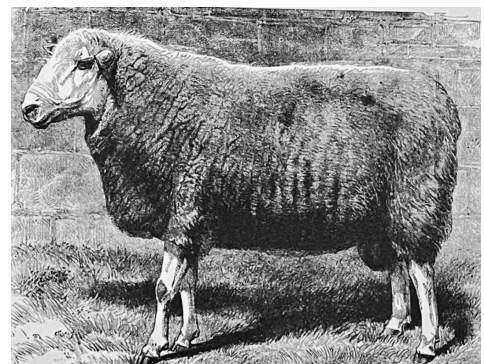

David Low, Professor of Agriculture in the University of Edinburgh in 1841-42, published a monumental work on the The Breeds of Domestic Animals of the British Islands, illustrated a Cheviot ewe with pure white in color, with smooth head, fairly large ears, prominent eye and nose with black nostril. He states “the body has trifle more of length that we would desire today and there is hardly the spirited carriage that is characteristic of the Cheviot as I have seen it both in England and America.”

The Cheviot Breed 1830s

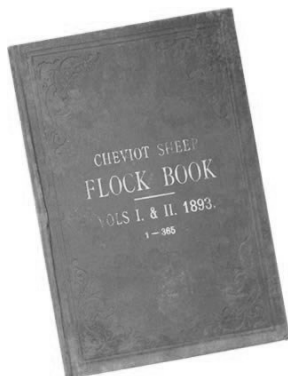

Henry H. Dixon, in 1866 notes “that most improved type of Cheviots have good Roman nosed heads, flat crowns covered with hard white and that glint of the eye. They have also wide girth and width between the forelegs and plenty of wool under the belly, as well as on the arms and thighs. A good forearm or “butcher grip” is as great a point as white legs and a black nose; and the horned rams are thought more hardy, though they are often coarser in the coat.”

In 1893, Professor Robert Wallace gives features of the modern Cheviot of England and Scotland. He states “the face and legs should be well covered with short, hard wiry, pure white hair, which should extend over the ears and well back over the head. The horns in the rams, though not always present, are not objected to, being considered a sign of hardiness. The nose of the ram is somewhat arched or Roman. The nostrils are black and the eyes are dark and very full and bright. The tail is long and should be very rough. It is cut so the point reaches the hocks. The shoulders are high and sharp at the withers. The fashionable form of the Cheviot is now shorter, smaller and more compacted and the wool closer and thicker.”

Cheviot Ram 1890

Following request for more information on pedigrees, a meeting was held on February 27, 1891 chaired by John Robson, Newton, Bellingham, Northumberland, England and the Cheviot Sheep Society was formed. Among those present were Mr. Fletcher, Jura, Mr. Keegan, Enniskerry, Ireland and Mr. Scott, Lesbury, Northumberland. The 1st Flock Book, volumes 1 and 2 were published in 1893. The Cheviots were the first breed to have a flock book.

With the editions of the Flock Book, interest in the Cheviot spread abroad and a good export trade materialized between 1930 and 1940. Despite the war, sheep were sent all over the world to every continent. When one shipment to Canada was sunk by a German U-boat, the demand was such that another was sent out.

Undoubtedly, the Cheviot has gone through a gradual change as shown through various writings over the span of several centuries by breeders and improvers.

“The history of this breed of sheep is really its English and Scottish history”, as stated in The Cheviot, by C.S. Plumb, (1899). “The breed has only been known in America in a very limited way, and but few sheep breeders outside of New York have ever seen Cheviots.”

Cheviots were first brought to the United States in 1838, and by Robert Youngs of Delhi, Delaware County, New York. Though they were imported into Canada at an earlier date by Mr. Pope of Cookshire, Quebec. In 1842, George Lough of Hartwick and Robert Davidson imported some into the same county. These became widely extended over the southern central counties of New York, especially Otsego and were mainly the foundation stock in the American Cheviot flock book. During that time it became the most prominent Cheviot breeding ground in America. Later importations were made to this region by George Lough and Robert Youngs. E.J. Bruce, Ketchum, New York and William Curry, Hartwick imported “Willie the Wist” No. 1 imp. and 3 ewes 1887. William Ralph, Markham, Ontario imported at the same time.

In 1890, several more importations were made from well known flocks. Such as rams, “Prince Davie” and “Hindhope” from John Elliot’s, of Scotland and a ewe, “Lady Robson” from John Robson’s flock, of Newton, England.

These earlier New York breeders claimed that the Cheviots were quiet in disposition and easily fence and controlled. The flocks were maintained with much purity for many years. At that time many small flocks existed in or about Otsego County.

Cheviots were introduced into Washington County, Pennsylvania, by Thomas M. Patterson, Patterson Mills, who in 1889 purchased a few head in Otsego County, New York.

In 1845, T.J. Carmichael imported three rams and six ewes from Scotland, to Wisconsin for his farm in Lake Mill, Jefferson County. These sheep were large and very fine, the fleeces were not quite as heavy nor nearly as long as the Leicester. During this time the breed did not become well-known in the State.

Cheviots were first taken into Illinois in 1888, when E. Pumphrey brought 10 ewes and one ram from the flock of E.J. Bruce, Ketchum, New York. The next year they lambled 150%.

Cheviots were first brought into Indiana in 1891 by Howard H. Keim, Ladoga, Montgomery County, who purchased 68 head of rams, ewes and lambs from the best flocks in Otsego County, New York. This was to be known as the best Cheviot flock in Indiana. At that time, Indiana ranked only second to New York in the importance of its Cheviot flocks.

There were also small flocks of Cheviots in Vermont, Michigan, Massachusetts, Iowa, Tennessee, Ohio and perhaps elsewhere.

At that time, there were two Cheviot Sheep Associations in America. On January 28-29, 1891, the American Cheviot Sheep Breeders Association was organized at Hartwick, Otsego County, New York. The founders of the association being Erwin J. Bruce, Henry Van Dreser, William Curry and Howard H. Keim. That association issued one Flock Book of about 160 pages. On March 23, 1894, the National Cheviot Sheep Society was organized at Indianapolis, Indiana, with William Curry, one of the Vice Presidents, and Howard H. Keim, Secretary. This society published one Flock Book of 51 pages.

It wasn't until 1900 that the American Cheviot Sheep Society was incorporated in Fayetteville, New York. The executive committee consist of President George Parnell, Wingate, Indiana, Secretary/Treasurer, F.E. Dawley, Fayetteville, New York, M.P. Lantz, Carlock, Illinois, Dorr M. Gregory, Mt. Vision, New York and John Curry, Hartwick, New York.

We're Back.... And More Excited Than Ever!!!

Seven years after my dispersal, I was so grateful to be able to bring back one of my last ewes born that spring. She is a combination of my best genetics from years ago that so many people fell in love with. Over the last year I have started adding some new genetics that I am pretty excited about as well!!! My philosophy for breeding Cheviot sheep will remain the same as years past— exceptional quality with outstanding breed character!!!

Doyne C. Lenhart

Doyne Lenhart, 90, of Georgetown, Illinois passed away at 10:01 pm, Friday, July 26, 2024, at Harrisons Crossing, Terre Haute, Indiana. He was born in Georgetown, Illinois on March 17, 1934, the son of Herbert and Ferne (Hughes) Lenhart. He was united in marriage to Marcia Moss of Paris, Illinois on a hot June 10th day in 1956. They were married for 66 years until Marcias passing in 2022. He is survived by his children, Tracy (Brian) Morgan of Cayuga, IN, Kerry (Anita) Lenhart of Georgetown, IL and Jeff Lenhart of Fithian, IL; his grandchildren, Annie (Tim) Romanello, Brent (Kelli) Morgan, Carter (Abbie) Morgan, Kody Lenhart, Abbigail Lenhart, Wyatt (Katelyn) Lenhart, Natalie (fiancé Garrett) Lenhart, Hudson Lenhart and Emma (Craig) Denton; and his great grandchildren Taylor & Keaton Romanello, Rory & Adler Morgan, Noah Morgan and Gus Denton. He was preceded in death by his parents, infant brother Hugh, his wife Marcia and granddaughter Emma Rose Lenhart. Doyne walked closely with God throughout his life and was blessed to experience great things on this earth. Born and raised on a family farm, he built a strong work ethic through farming, livestock, 4H and FFA in school. His teenage responsibility of keeping the lots mowed, turned the purchase of a few sheep to maintain the pasture into his lifelong love of the sheep industry. As he furthered his education at Purdue University, he graduated in 1956 with an Animal Husbandry degree, learned to shear sheep and call square dances to pay for his and Marcias's final two years at Purdue. ROTC in college led to a rank of 2nd Lieutenant in the Army and 7.5 years in the Reserves.

The sheep business led to several jobs including a 2-year stint as the Shepherd for Kansas State University and attending Reisch Auction School in 1963. The purebred sheep auctions allowed him to sell in 11 states and build his reputation as an auctioneer. After running a livestock market in Paris, IL for 2 years he moved the family to Georgetown to work on the family farm and expand the auction business. Doyne and Marcia built a successful auction business, conducting 100 auctions a year for many years, simultaneously farming 450 acres as well as raising 200 head of sheep and 75 head of dairy goats. He purchased the Independent News weekly newspaper and exploded the circulation of 1750 to over 17,500 delivered each week. He opened a second Real Estate office and was on the Vermilion County Farm Bureau Board for 12 years. He was adamant about learning new things to better his business. He became a member of the Illinois, Indiana and National Auctioneers Associations. He regularly attended the annual conventions to learn and then later to teach continuing education at the Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin and National conventions. He was a past President of the Illinois Auctioneers Association and inducted into the Indiana and Illinois Auctioneers Halls of Fame. In his 51 years as an auctioneer, he saw enormous changes in the industry from selling with a clerk/cashier who knew everyone's name, to using bidder numbers, auction trucks and trailers to learning new trends and implementing them into his businesses. He computerized his auction business in 1990 and moved the auction method of marketing to online auctions a decade before Covid forced the auction world to change. In 2016, shortly after retirement, he wrote a book about his memoirs, "Hogs, Sheep and Auctions or 51 Years as an Auctioneer". Proceeds from the sale of his book were given to his favorite charity, St. Jude's Children's Hospital. He also posted a weekly Facebook story about sheep or the auction business. In his later years, he continued to help the auction company every week by sorting tools in garages, open houses & pickups. He touched the life of everyone he met and worked with, always generous with his teaching and storytelling. He will be greatly missed by family, friends and his worldwide Facebook family. Doyne led a full life hand in hand with God.

Lawrence Patrick McGuire

Lawrence “Larry” Patrick McGuire 75 of rural Fairmont, Minnesota passed away peacefully in his home on Friday August 16, 2024. Larry was a big man in stature and in life, he loved all animals from sheep, dogs and cats to cougars and elk. He proudly raised them all through most of his life. He loved his extended family more than he could ever express in words, and he was successful in a long business career. He was also an avid nature photographer and game hunter throughout his life. Lawrence was the son of Ira and Kathryn (Crowley) McGuire, he was born February 23rd, 1949 and raised in Vincent, Iowa. He graduated from Eagle Grove High School and Northwest Missouri State University. He also furthered his studies in food science to support his career.

Larry has a lifetime of banners and ribbons from showing many breeds of sheep through the years. In the early years, you would have known Larry and his family for traveling in a modified school bus full of sheep to fairs across the Midwest. Then, over the last forty years McGuire Sheep Farms was noted for having one of the premier Cheviot and Southdown flocks in the United States, also raising and showing flocks of Hampshires, Suffolks and Oxfords along the way.

Larry’s investment in the breed and youth programs contributed to the rapid growth of the Southdown breed to one of the preeminent purebred sheep breeds in the United States. He was a generous Southdown Junior show and futurity sponsor, and he was recently recognized by the American Southdown Association with the Spirit of the Breed award. Larry and a group of colleagues and investors resurrected a local frozen food plant in Fairmont, MN. Larry became co-owner and CEO of Fairmont Foods, producing products for Sara Lee, Lean Cuisine, Fazoli’s, Bakers Square, White Castle, Cub Foods and more. A highlight of his career was working with Paul and Linda McCartney to develop and promote a line of specialty foods under Linda’s name, having joined them on a North American tour to promote the products, and visited their sheep farm in England. Fairmont Foods created opportunities for hundreds of employees and their families in Martin County throughout the years.

Lawrence is survived by his siblings Bruce McGuire of Ankeny, Iowa and Iris (Tim) Hazel of Fort Dodge, Iowa, as well as his sister-in-law, Karen McGuire. Uncle Lawrence was definitely known to spoil his nieces and nephews and enjoyed several great and great-great nieces and nephews. Lawrence was preceded in death by his parents Ira and Kathryn McGuire, his brother Tim McGuire, nephew Vance Weltha and great-great niece Aubree.

Roger served on the Stanton Township Board, Stanton Friends Cemetery and the Stanton Township Drainage Ditch Board. ## CHEVIOT SHEEP

The Breed with a Future

Medium sized, strong, active and beautiful. Breed young, mostly twins, and live long. Practically free of foot rot, snotty noses, and other sheep ailments. Require little attention at lamb time. Cheviot rams cross well with larger breeds. Will produce strong, active lambs that will develop into a 75 to 100 pound lamb of high quality at an early age, on a minimum amount of feed. Cheviots also produce high quality white wool.

WAMPLER'S BIG CHEVIOTS

The senior member of our firm has been raising sheep for more than 50 years and has tried many of the leading breeds. Twenty years ago we decided to breed only Cheviot and determined to breed them somewhat larger without losing any of their good qualities. We believe we have one of the largest flocks of large regular Cheviots in America. Our rams weigh from 175 to well over 200 pounds and our ewes from 130 to 170 pounds running on nothing but good pasture, and weighed the same time we weigh the lambs. We weigh all our lambs at 120 days. Our 1961 crop of lambs average 64½ pounds. Remember this weight includes the small as well as the large ones. 38 singles, 88 twins, 2 sets of triplets. They would weight 10 to 20 per cent more if on feed. The largest ewe lamb in our show flock is a single, lambed February 2, weighed 92 pounds June 13. Adjusted 120 days weight 90 pounds. This lamb along with about 30 of her half sisters will be in our sale.
